Sunita is an experienced business professional having worked over 20 years across India, US and Singapore. She currently works with a large technology MNC, and is Head of Marketing for South East Asia. An Indian national, she has been a PR in Singapore since 1995. Her induction into Aware was through the helpline where she has been a volunteer for a couple of years. Sunita holds an MBA from the Indian Institute of Management in Ahmadabad and a BA (Hons.) in Economics from the University of Delhi.

Sunita believes passionately about gender equality and feels that Aware's accomplishments over the years have been incredibly important for the women of Singapore and for Singapore's society as a whole.

Her work in a company known for its best in class HR practices, business processes and data orientation have given Sunita skills in the areas of planning and strategy, mapping out the challenges, and looking at it from short term as well as longer term perspectives. And she hopes to bring this experience into areas of Aware's leadership and staffing, as also open doors for Aware to gain visibility for its agenda on sexual harassment and gender equality.
